

BARBADOS TWO WAYS

Where the West Indies meets the Caribbean sits Barbados – a diverse island full of rich British history, delicious rums and, of course, white-sand beaches along a blue-green sea. FOUR heads to the fabled island to find out more about two of its finest West Coast resorts.

Widely perceived to be the Caribbean at its finest, Barbados sets itself apart from other Caribbean islands due to its proud inhabitants, hospitable nature and unrivalled scenery.

Often referred to as ‘the Platinum Coast’, the west coast of the island is not only renowned for its calm and clear waters, but also the exclusive selection of restaurants and resorts. Two standout venues along the 21-mile-long island are Port Ferdinand Yacht & Beach Club and Saint Peter’s Bay Luxury Resort & Residences, Barbados’ most luxurious harbour- and beachfront resorts.

Located along the affluent northwestern tip, Port Ferdinand and Saint Peter’s Bay offer prime real estate and accommodation just outside of the main tourist hotspots of the island.

For those with a more aquatic-leaning interest, Port Ferdinand Yacht & Beach Club boasts a full-service marina and yachting community, as well as a collection of two- to five-bedroom luxury harbourfront villas.

centre and 1.4 acres of pristine beachfront, the resort residences are perfect for anyone seeking a truly unique and luxurious Caribbean getaway.

A new stylish bistro from arguably Barbados’ finest chef, Larry Rogers, Dockside at 13°/59° has also recently opened at Port Ferdinand, offering high-quality meals using fresh-quality ingredients in a relaxed dockside setting.

HOT PROPERTY

“The food is exquisite here with Dockside at 13°/59° – really up to the best of any food I’ve had anywhere in the world,” says Dr Karen Dickens, owner at Port Ferdinand. “Larry Rogers is just an amazing chef, and using local ingredients he takes the essence of Barbados, but adds a special twist to make it unusual and different.”

Alternative venues on the property include the Quarterdeck restaurant and bar and internationally renowned luxury club Nikki Beach, which opened on Port Ferdinand beach in 2018.

“The friendly and professional personal concierge staff at Port Ferdinand and Saint Peter’s Bay pride themselves on being able to cater to owners’ and guests’ every whim. So whether you fancy swimming with the turtles, snorkelling and diving experiences, bespoke candlelit dinners in the best restaurants or in residence, private catamaran cruises or fishing charters, there is nothing that our concierge staff can’t assist with,” says Craig Eddins, managing director.

Every detail of the Port Ferdinand residences has been carefully considered for maximum comfort and leisure, from the oversized indoor-outdoor living spaces to the 60 foot or greater yacht slips with every residence, to the sweeping panoramic views of Barbados’ pre-eminent yacht marina and the Caribbean Sea.

Along with its rich amenities and legendary Bajan service, Port Ferdinand is a true home-away-from-home for discerning travellers and homeowners, as well as yacht- and beach-lovers alike.

Located a mere 1.8 miles away is Port Ferdinand’s sister resort, Saint Peter’s Bay. Equally as luxurious but offering a more laid-back approach, the resort can be reached by private water-taxi service, after which guests will find a beautiful traditional Caribbean resort overflowing on to the white sandy beaches.

Spread over 500 ft of pristine beach with crystal-clear water, the ultra-spacious villas at Saint Peter’s Bay Luxury Resort & Residences encapsulate Barbados’ appeal in one of its most exclusive settings.

homeownership and rental, Saint Peter’s Bay Resort & Residences boasts a private and discreet environment for all of its esteemed guests.

The luxurious yet deeply relaxed beachfront resort offers villa-style homes with the same stellar concierge service as Port Ferdinand. With slightly more family focused amenities and activities, Saint Peter’s Bay is an ideal escape for a multi-generational holiday, with the design of the resort even allowing two villas to be joined into six-bedroom residences.

With something for everyone, Saint Peter’s Bay and Port Ferdinand are perfect for larger families yet still cater for those who want to bathe in breathtaking views of sparkling turquoise sea or sip champagne from the hot tub of their private terrace. ■
